ONLY THIRTEEN YEARS MORE

Until the World is Wiped Out—So Says Rev. Baxter.

Rev. M. Baxter, London, Eng., a heavy-built man with blue eyes, and a full brown beard, lectured on the "Second Advent," in Market Hall yesterday afternoon. All about the stage were hung gorgeous pictures in red and yellow colors, depicting such scenes as the maker supposed the prophetic visions of Daniel, Zachariah and St. John brought before their eyes. They represented strange beasts, demons and men, with combinations of all three, in startling prominence. In one of them was depicted the "woe of 200,000,000 fire-breathing demons slaying one-third of the human race, about 1808-99," in which a host of fierce-looking men were riding at full tilt on bare-back horses, from whose nostrils came streaks of fire and clouds of smoke. Another represented the "Scarlet Woman" of Revelations seated on a fierce-looking animal, from whose head grew seven horns shooting in all directions. Another was a millennial scene, where a little child was stroking the shaggy mane of a fierce-looking lion, while other wild beasts sported near by. Another represented a knight on a black charger with a drawn sword, dashing through a cloud of dust, fire and smoke. And yet another was a representative of Christ, in snowy garments, on a spotted horse, riding in triumph through the clouds that rolled white as banks of snow from beneath the horse's hoofs. Directly over the center of the platform hung a map, showing the present boundary lines of the countries of Asia Minor, Northern Africa and Europe. Mr. Baxter held a long pointer in his hand and spoke for an hour or more in a tone that was rather a high tenor. About 150 persons sat in front of him.

The speaker went over the prophecies of Daniel, and from a large picture of the prophetic man, with joints of brass spoken of in the Book of Daniel, drew the inference that there would soon be a general overturning of kingdoms in Europe, bloody wars and the final resurrection at about the year 1900. The word pictures of the carnage in Europe in the next two or three years were as red as the fire in the picture of the million demons, and the final scene as mild and peaceful as the scene where the little child played with the lion's mane.

IT IS COMING SOON.

"Within three years," said he, "Europe will be torn with a sanguinary, cruel, dreadful, relentless war between France and Germany, in which, strange as it may seem, France is to be the conqueror. Little do the citizens of France and Germany, sitting quietly in their homes this Sunday afternoon, know what is in their future. They think they may live long years of happiness perhaps. But in two or three years they must die, by bullets, by cannonballs and by bayonets. They must die, perish, be gathered to their fathers and shuffle off this mortal coil. You in this country may well be thankful that you are so far from the scene of carnage. But the horrors of war will come upon this country in about twelve years. Socialism is gaining ground, and in a few years it will burst in a roaring, seething, hissing, boiling flood and flow over this fair country. And in about ten years everybody will be caught up. It is disputed whether the dead shall rise as a cloud, an exhalation, a mist from the earth, or whether there will be an actual breaking of tombstones and a breaking up of graves. The stone was rolled away from the tomb of Lazarus before he came forth, and also from the tomb of Christ, and this would indicate that there will be an actual breaking up of graves. In a few years thousands and tens of thousands will pass from this world as Elijah and Enoch did, and not die. Tens of thousands will die violently, amid booming cannons and whistling bullets, earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. Some ask how it will be possible to be caught up into the skies without dying. A man said to me the other day that it was impossible; he would freeze to death in mid-air. Still, you need not fear this. You will have new bodies that will not freeze, and you will go with the rapidity of an electric spark. But only those who believe will be caught up. The second coming of Christ will be not far from the close of this century. All signs and prophecies point to it. That advent of Christ will come suddenly, in an instant of time, all things continuing as they were through the very preceding instant, all things in the world, sun, moon, stars, dew, rain, beasts, birds, men, women, each and all found in their ordinary calling, up to the very instant of the bursting in of the Lord upon the world. You are gazing upon the sky—you see a lightning light along—it is the Lord. You are speaking to your wife or your child by the fireside—an awful thunder breaks upon you—it is the Lord.—St. Louis Globe.
